We must have good and law abiding men in council if we desire to see our city prosper.

As to the "indignation meeting" called for tonight. Who called it? I have in my mind's eye an indignation (?) meeting which was held in the rink not many moons since. There was considerable expense connected with that meeting, and some of the innocent and unsophisticated citizens of East Liverpool were at a loss to understand who bore the expenses thus incurred. But to the citizen who kept his eyes open, and made note of the surroundings that night at the rink, the secret was very easily solved, and as clear as the open day. There was a very evil element present and in control upon that occasion; an element premiums or prizes, would be offered, as directly opposed to good government and the enforcement of law and of order in our midst, and the same common sense and common observation teaches me that some of the same element are endeavoring to assume control of the city desires a day devoted to "hurrah" coming street fair, and, by cunning device, persuade good, honest and true men to back them up in their nefarious work.

STREET FAIR.

EDITOR NEWS REVIEW-Let me have space for a few remarks in your paper. It has come to me, through a reliable source, that the liquor element offered the executive committee of the Street Fair association a sum of from $200 to $300 in case the fair could be run "wide open," and that the executive committee emphatically said "nay," as the wish of the merchants is not to have a day merely devoted to "hurrah" and to sporting affairs, but an occasion devoted to the best interests of the merchants and business men; a day when such inducements, in the shape of valuable would induce farmers to come to East Liverpool, from far and near, bringing with them such exhibits as could not fail in making the fair a flattering success. EAST LIVERPOOL O., MONDAY, SEPT. 21.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

For President, WILLIAM MCKINLEY. Of Ohio.

For Vice President, GARRET A. HOBART, Of, New Jersey.

For Electors at Large. For Judge of Supreme Court, MARSHALL J. WILLIAMS.

For Member of Board of Public Works. FRANK HUFFMAN. ROBERT W. TAYLER.

For Judge of the Circuit Court,

J. B. BURROWS.

For Judge of Common Pleas Court. P. M. SMITH.

> For Probate Judge, J. C. BOONE. For Clerk of Courts. JOHN S. M'NUTT For Recorder, ED. M. CROSSER. CHRIS. BOWMAN. For Infirmary Director. L. C. HOOPES. JOHN L. STRAUGHN.

MR. BRYAN'S position toward the potters and wool growers when he was in congress will cause a mighty Republican vote in this county next November.

So FAR as East Liverpool is concerned there is but one side to the political question. If McKinley and honest money win the election, merchants will buy our ware and the potteries will run steadily; if Bryan is elected, merchants will not buy our ware and there will be employment for few if any.

ANARCHY.

Defiance of council, as the representatives of the people, and defiance of the laws and ordinances governing the city. is simply anarchy in miniature, and the advocate or advocates of such measure are not good citizens.

STREET FAIRS.

There are street fairs and street fairs Citizens will remember that the first one held in this city was a flattering success from every standpoint, and it was con trolled and conducted by good citizens, in a lawful and legal manner. But the same old citizens will remember that the last one held in this city was a miserable farce and failure, and it was anything but a credit to East Liverpool. Let us have a street fair, by all means, if it be considered a good feature by good citizens; but let it be conducted and controlled as was the first one held here. Let law and order prevail.

THE COUNTY TICKET.

Even though this is a presidential year Republicans should not forget that we have a county election to look after, and the manner in which a large amount of the business of Columbiana is conducted in future years depends upon those men who will fill the offices when the present incumbents step down and out. Fortunately the primaries resulted in the selection of men of sound sense, leaders in the communities in which they reside. Professional men, business men and farmers are found upon the ticket, I do marry, for I will not see a wife and the private character of each is a sufficient guarantee they will fill the positions with honor to themselves and credit to the county. Each has been successful in private life, and there is no reason to believe he will not be when he takes his place in the court house. Mr. Potts has intimated that he will defeat the ticket by his boastful declaration that he will carry a given number of townships on the silver issue, but he will fail in that as he would fail if there was no national question to decide in November The personel of the Republican ticket represents honor, integrity and personal worth, and the people of Columbiana county ask no better assurance that their affairs will be carefully and judiciously administered.

AN ARTFUL APPEAL.

A Mendicant Who Succeeds In Extracting

An illustration of the depth to which one woman has sunk (or risen) in the art of begging may be seen any evening after dark on the down town streets of Chicago. This woman has no favorite street. She simply plays them all, usually side streets, where the young man with his best girl as often glides through because the crowds are not dense or the lights so brilliant.

This woman has two confederates who dress and act like laboring men. Each carries his little tin pail, and each shows evidence of having been hard at work. A young society man and his girl walk slowly along, indifferent to the world. Neither hears the almost inaudible appeal for help. As the young couple pass the mendicant the men with their tin pails and grimy hands stop short and block the way.

"Let's chip in a nickel apiece and help that poor, starving creature," says

"All right, Joe, I'll do it. I carned three taken at wide intervals from the an extra quarter today, and I can just front wheel, on which there is relatively spare a nickel.'

A THRIFTLESS GENIUS.

The Hand to Mouth Existence That Wa Led by Leigh Hunt.

Leigh Hunt had no sense either of time or of money-a grave fault, per haps an unpardonable vice, in a mat who had a wife and children depending upon him. As long as he lived he was stances this has proved very effectual, thriftless and needy, a lender and a borrower, so generous that he could never afford to be just, bringing upon those whom he loved sincerely a constant bur den of debt and care. How reprehensible this was he seems never to have felt. though he blames himself freely and light heartedly, and if the reader of his autobiography is disposed to feel every other night, and in the morning sorry for Mrs. Hunt it is not because her husband sets him the example. This was Leigh Hunt's one vice, never amended nor actively repented of. Yet he had had his warning It is pathetic to compare with each other the two following passages and to see how clearly Leigh Hunt foresaw his danger and how incapable he proved of escaping it:
"I have seen," he writes in 1808, "so much of the irritabilities, or rather the miseries, accruing from want of a suitable income, and the best woman of her time was so worried and finally worn out with the early negligence of others in this respect that if ever I was determined in anything it is to be perfectly clear of the world and ready to meet the exigencies of a married life before who loves me and is the comfort of my existence afraid to speak to me of money matters. The British Nile Expedition Is a Success.

SOUDAN IN ENGLAND'S HANDS.

[Copyrighted]

KERMA, on the Nile, Sept. 21 .- Dongola, in the Sondan, has fallen and the nominal objective point of the British Egyptian expedition has been reached. The river forces of the British-Egyptian expedition, pushing up the Nile from El Hafir, landed a force at Dongola and occupied that place before the Dervish forces retreating from El Hafir reached that point.

El Hafir and Dongola are therefore both in the hands of the expedition, while the Dervish forces are somewhere between seeking refuse.

The last news given in these dispatches regarding the British expedition into the Soudan told that the British were then approaching Kerma. This place was easily taken.

After hard fighting between the land forces and the English and Dervish gunboats on the river Nile, the Dervishes evacated El Hafir. The British then pushed on with all possible speed to-ward Dongola, fighting most all the

May.

After Kerma was taken the long rang firing continued between the Dervishes on the west bank of the Nile and the expeditionary force on this side. Maxim guns, with their sweeping hail of fire, did great execution in the Dervish ranks, while the field and horse batteries never allowed the enemy to do anything with their batteries.

Darkness put an end to the artillery duel across the Nile water and stillness fell upon both camps. The time was one of waiting, though the silence of the desert was once broken by a dis-charge from the Maxim guns on this

Sunday morning everyone was up a daybreak anxious to know what change in the situation had developed during the night and what would be the next move, and eagerly scanning the ene my's camp across the river. There was no sign of life in the Dervish works, but soon a commotion was perceived among the boats along the bank and a native in one of them was discerned in the act of waving something as though for a signal to this side of the river.

The steamer Dal, of the British force thereupon proceeded to the west bank of the river where it was found that El Hafir had been evacuated by the enemy under cover of the night and that not a Dervish fighting man was left in sight.

The detachment on the Dal sent back to the camp on this side of the river twenty-seven boats, which had been manned by the native residents of El Hafir and loaded with a great quantity

The natives announced that the enemy had departed and that Wad Bishara, the young Emir of Dongola, who commanded the Dervishes had been wounded. A shell from a British-Egyptian battery burst in his tent, inhicting wounds in his breast and head, the former being a severe hurt.

After the gunboats of the expedition had forced their way through past the forts at El Hafir and had proceeded southward toward Dongola, the Dervishes apparently perceived that El Hafir was no longer the place for them and they prepared to depart. They and they prepared to depart. They buried as many of their dead as they had time for. The rest were prepared with a stone around the neck and thrown into the Nile.

The news has reached here that the steamers and gunboats of the expedi-tion had reached Dongola and had landed a force, which immediately occupied the treasury and grainstore, the principal stronghold of the town. This news was received here with delight, as it is supposed that the enemy is now marching between here and Dongola in a much hampered condition, by the reason of the number of their wounded and their retreat along the river bank threatened by the steamers, which can destroy, at any moment, the food sup-plied at Dongola, if they cannot hold that place against the retreating forces of Dervishes until land forces of the expedition have advanced to co-operate with them.

The engagement at El Hafir seems to have altogether dismayed the Dervishes who placed great reliance upon the Fort at that place. They believed that the fort would be able to prevent the pas-sage of any of the steamers of the British-Egyptian expedition.

The native residents of El Hafir have welcomed the appearance of the Brit ish and Egyptian expedition and seem to regard their advance as assurance o. a deliverance from the rule of the Khalifa and the Baggaras, the Khalifas of the United States navy.

native tribe, who have exercised a crue domination over the Nile tribes.

McDonald's brigade was the first to cross the river and the soldiers were met with the wildest and maddest signs of delight by the natives. They shouted in a frenzied manner and danced about the troops, singing and shouting like lunatics.

The losses of the expedition so far are only five wounded, despite the enemy's hot fire. The field horse battery and the men who handled the Maxim guns had an especially warm

The weather for the last few days has been rather hot. The wind from the north has brought nearly all the boats up the river bearing sufficient supplies for the wants of the expedi-

It is evident that Wad Bishara had brought up all his effective force from Dongala, intending to make a stand at El Hafir. Even if he is able to recover Dongola from the river force of the expedition, which has occupied it, it is not considered possible that he could make a stand there against the advance of the combined land and river forces

a riot in Spain, which lasted so long and cost so many lives that it might almost be termed a civil war. This was 20 years earlier. Charles III thought them untidy. He thought the streets of his capital untidy also and denounced both eyesores in an edict. Every Spaniard henceforth must pin up his flopping brim, and every householder of Madrid must clean the street opposite his premises. Forthwith the people rose. They were little interested, comparatively, in the street cleaning, but they would die for their bats. And a good many of them did, but not unavenged. More than a week the fray lasted, but it was thought remarkable by foreign observers that at 2 p. m. regularly the soldiers plied arms, the furious citizens withdrew and silence reigned for one hour. Both parties were enjoying the siesta, except, perhaps, the wounded. After that interval they recommenced. The king fled, and for the rest of his life he never returned to Madrid willingly. In fact, it was understood he designed to make Seville the capital henceforth, and only gave up the project when his ministers showed him what a vast sum he had already spent on the new palace. So, mighty may be the influence of the hat in state affairs! Finally the king compromised. He withdrew his edict so far as the realm at large was concerned. Within the walls of Madrid every man must wear his brim pinned up, but outside he was at liberty to let it slouch. But the police courts did not cease to be busy until the fashion changed.—Pall Mall Gazette.

AMERICANIZED CHINAMEN.

How Yankee Sign Painters Sophisticate Oriental Names.

It is rather amusing to note the curious disguises under which Chinese name appear on the laundry signboards so thickly scattered through our cities. It is the natural result of the Chinaman's imperfect acquaintance with English and the sign painter's absolute ignorance of Chinese.

For instance, John goes to the painter and explains - "Want paint washee washee

"All right. What's your name?" asks the painter.

"Name Cha Li Ling," replies the oriental, and down it goes on the sign, "Charlie Ling."

It is surprising the number of thes Charlies who wear pigtails, but it always come to pass in the way just indi-

One sign painter did still better. The applicant gave his name as Cha Ku Li. This in due time appeared on a square red board as follows: "Chas. Q. Lee, First Class Chinese Laundry." It is often alleged that the Chinese never become truly American, but here was a Chinaman pretty thoroughly Americanized, one would fancy. It was from the bumptious sign painter, however, that he got his naturalization papers. -Boston Post.

Dancing and Tunnels.

A boy of 4 asked to be taken with his elders to a ball. He was told that he must first learn to dance. Upon this he delivered himself as follows: "But I tan dance, and my way is more difficult than your way. I tan dance alone, but you have to be holded up." This was not smartness, perverted ingenuity, as some might suppose. It was a bit of perfectly natural child thought. To the little philosopher there seemed nothing in the nature of things to make dancers dance in "pairs" and hold one another in so tight a grip unless it were to keep one another from falling. In many of these naive misinterpretations of what is seen the point of the humor involves, of course, a side hit at grown up weaknesses which lie hid from the child. A good example of the charm of this childish innocence is given by Mr. Punch when he makes little Jessie ask her mamma in a railway carstrong of brandy?" to the disgust of a close by. THE CZAR'S WIG.

How an Officer Tweaked It and Won a Bet and Position

Paul, the eccentric czar of Russia sassinated in 1801, was very partieular as to his dress, and considered trifling matters as of supreme importance. This peculiarity was once taken advan-tage of by an officer of the guards, Major Vaksel, to win a bet. The major, the wildest joker in the army, wagered several hundred rubles that he would tweak the tail of the emperor's wig on

The very next day the emperor happened to be present at an early parade, and, as destiny ruled it, took a position for a moment immediately in front of the daring major. Breathless with excitement and terror, Vaksel's compan ions beheld that rash officer's right hand steal slowly from his side, rise to the level of the czar's neck and give the wig's hanging tail a most decided tweak In an instant the emperor's face, pale

Paul's countenance cleared at once. He stared fixedly, however, at Vaksel's innocent looking face for some seconds. Vaksel admitted afterward that this was the trying moment, and he had said to himself, "If I waver, I'm lost!" Then the czar spoke, and spoke so that all might bear.

"I thank you, colonel," he said. If ever a step in rank was gained by the purest effrontery it was so acquired on this occasion, and Vaksel left the field, not only promoted to a coveted position in the guards, but richer by many hundred rubles as the result of his wager. -Temple Bar.

TO MAINTAIN A PRINCIPLE.

A Quaker Firm That Sacrifices Hundreds of Thousands a Year. There is probably not another business firm in the United States, or, for that matter, in any other country in the world, that annually sacrifices hundreds of thousands of dollars of trade simply to maintain a principle, as Whitall, Tatum & Co., the Quaker glass manufacturers of Philadelphia, do and have done for nearly 75 years. The firm was established in the early part of the century, and its founders were strict and consistent members of the Society of Friends. They did not believe in war, nor in litigation, nor in e manufacture or sale of intoxicat liquors, and they established a rule which has never been violated. Whitall, Tatum. & Co. have never made a whisky flask, nor any sort or description of bottle intended to contain either malt, vinous or spirituous liquors. This includes the small vials called "samples," which are similar to those made to display samples of illuminating and lubricating oils. Should an intending purchaser ask for oil "samples" and say they were to be used for whisky, he could not buy them at any price.

The army and navy departments of the United States have sought several times to buy glassware from the firm, but the patronage has invariably been refused on the ground that the furnishing of any sort of supply for the aid or comfort of persons engaged in war or maintaining peace by force of arms was contrary to the tenets of the Society of Friends, and therefore could not be considered. The senior member of the firm, recently deceased, was a typical Quaker-a man of brawn and brain, and at 65 was in as fine a physical condition as most men who have led a temperate life are at 40. Grief over the untir death of his son, a young man of great promise, was the primary cause of Mr. Whitall's death. - New York Mail

Mr. Bryan's position toward the potters and wool growers when he was in congress will cause a mighty Republican vote in this county next November.

So far as East Liverpool is concerned there is but one side to the political question. If McKinley and honest money win the election, merchants will buy our ware and the potteries will run steadily; if Bryan is elected, merchants will not buy our ware and there will be employment for few if any.

ANARCHY.

Defiance of council, as the representatives of the people, and defiance of the laws and ordinances governing the city, is simply anarchy in miniature, and the advocate or advocates of such measures are not good citizens.

STREET FAIRS.

There are street fairs and street fairs. Citizens will remember that the first one held in this city was a flattering success, from every standpoint, and it was controlled and conducted by good citizens. in a lawful and legal manner. But the same old citizens will remember that the last one held in this city was a miserable farce and failure, and it was anything but a credit to East Liverpool. Let us have a street fair, by all means, if it be considered a good feature by good citizens; but let it be conducted and controlled as was the first one held here. Let law and order prevail.

THE COUNTY TICKET.

Even though this is a presidential year Republicans should not forget that we have a county election to look after, and the manner in which a large amount of the business of Columbiana is conducted in future years depends upon those men who will fill the offices when the present incumbents step down and out. Fortunately the primaries resulted in the selection of men of sound sense, leaders in the communities in which they reside. Professional men, business men and farmers are found upon the ticket, I do marry, for I will not see a wife and the private character of each is a sufficient guarantee they will fill the positions with honor to themselves and credit to the county. Each has been successful in private life, and there is no reason to believe he will not be when he takes his place in the court house. Mr. Potts has intimated that he will defeat the ticket by his boastful Friday I was sitting down to dinner declaration that he will carry a given number of townships on the silver issue, but he will fail in that as he would fail if there was no national question to decide in November The personel of the Republican ticket represents honor, integrity and personal worth, and the people of Columbiana county ask no better assurance that their affairs will be carefully and judiciously administered.

A Mendicant Who Succeeds In Extracting

An illustration of the depth to which one woman has sunk (or risen) in the art of begging may be seen any evening after dark on the down town streets of Chicago. This woman has no favorite street. She simply plays them all, usually side streets, where the young man with his best girl as often glides through because the crowds are not so dense or the lights so brilliant.

This woman has two confederates who dress and act like laboring men. Each carries his little tin pail, and each shows evidence of having been hard at work. A young society man and his girl walk slowly along, indifferent to the world. Neither hears the almost inaudible appeal for help. As the young couple pass the mendicant the men with their tin pails and grimy hands stop short and block the way.

The British Nile Expedition Is a Success.

SOUDAN IN ENGLAND'S HANDS.

The Dervishes Hemmed In Between Don gola and El Hafir, Now Held by the British-Natives Happy Over Escape From Their Oppressors.

[Copyrighted] KERMA, on the Nile, Sept. 21 .- Dongola, in the Soudan, has fallen and the nominal objective point of the British Egyptian expedition has been reached. The river forces of the British-Egyptian expedition, pushing up the Nile from El Hafir, landed a force at Dongola and occupied that place before the Dervish forces retreating from El Hafir reached that point. El Hafir and Dongola are therefore both in the hands of the expedition, while the Dervish forces are somewhere between seeking refuse.

The last news given in these dispatches regarding the British expedition into the Soudan told that the British were then approaching Kerma. This place was easily taken.

After hard fighting between the land forces and the English and Dervish gunboats on the river Nile, the Dervishes evacated El Hafir. The British then pushed on with all possible speed to-ward Dongola, fighting most all the

After Kerma was taken the long rang firing continued between the Dervishes on the west bank of the Nile and the expeditionary force on this side. Maxim guns, with their sweeping hail of fire, did great execution in the Dervish ranks, while the field and horse batteries never allowed the enemy to do anything with their batteries.

Darkness put an end to the artillery duel across the Nile water and stillness fell upon both camps. The time was one of waiting, though the silence of the desert was once broken by a discharge from the Maxim guns on this side of the river.

Sunday morning everyone was up at daybreak anxious to know what change in the situation had developed during the night and what would be the next move, and eagerly scanning the enemy's camp across the river. There was no sign of life in the Dervish works, but soon a commotion was perceived among the boats along the bank and native in one of them was discerned in the act of waving something as though for a signal to this side of the river.

The steamer Dal, of the British force thereupon proceeded to the west bank of the river where it was found that El Hafir had been evacuated by the enemy under cover of the night and that not a Dervish fighting man was left in sight. The detachment on the Dal sent back to the camp on this side of the river twenty-seven boats, which had been manned by the native residents of El Hafir and loaded with a great quantity of grain.

The natives announced that the enemy had departed and that Wad Bishara, the young Emir of Dongola, who commanded the Dervishes had been wounded. A shell from a British-Egyptian burst in his tent, inflicting wounds in his breast and head, the former being a severe hurt.

After the gunboats of the expedition had forced their way through past the forts at El Hafir and had proceeded southward toward Dongola, the Dervishes apparently perceived that El Hafir was no longer the place for them and they prepared to depart. They buried as many of their dead as they had time for. The rest were prepared with a stone around the neck and thrown into the Nile.

The news has reached here that the steamers and gunboats of the expedi-tion had reached Dongola and had landed a force, which immediately occupied the treasury and grainstore, the principal stronghold of the town. This news was received here with delight, as it is supposed that the enemy is now marching between here and Dongola in a much hampered condition, by the reason of the number of their wounded and their retreat along the river bank threatened by the steamers, which can destroy, at any moment, the food sup-plied at Dongola, if they cannot hold that place against the retreating forces of Dervishes until land forces of the expedition have advanced to co-operate with them.

The engagement at El Hafir seems to have altogether dismayed the Dervishes who placed great reliance upon the Fort at that place. They believed that the fort would be able to prevent the pas-sage of any of the steamers of the British-Egyptian expedition.

Dancing and Tunnels.

A boy of 4 asked to be taken with his elders to a ball. He was told that he must first learn to dance. Upon this he delivered himself as follows: "But I tan dance, and my way is more difficult than your way. I tan dance alone, but you have to be holded up." This was not smartness, perverted ingenuity, as some might suppose. It was a bit of perfectly natural child thought. To the little philosopher there seemed nothing in the nature of things to make dancers dance in "pairs" and hold one another in so tight a grip unless it were to keep one another from falling.

In many of these naive misinterpretations of what is seen the point of the humor involves, of course, a side hit at grown up weaknesses which lie bid from the child. It is believed that this course is approved by Senator Hill, William F. Sheehan and others not in attendance at the state convention, and is intended to try and fend off any nomination of a second Democratic ticket at Brooklyn, and enforce a fight at the polls upon state issues leaving the national ticket

Mr. Thacher declares that he against free silver, but will vote for Bryan and Sewall for regularity and fight the campaign on state issues only.

I am informed that the Democratic party of the state in convention assembled at Buffalo on Sept. 17, 1896, did me the honor of naming me as its candidate for the high office of governor. I now learn that the state committee is to meet on Tuesday for the purpose of appointing a committee to officially notify me of that fact. it has seemed to me due to your committee that before it takes that step, I should make a statement.

committee that before it takes that step, I should make a statement.

I cannot ask for the confidence and support of the people of the state without frankly declaring my position upon the financial issue now agitating the public. I stand today where I stood in the month of June in the presence of a convention of the state Democracy. I have not changed an iota in my belief nor deviated a step in my course. Beaten, as Were His Two Children. The Victim a Respected, Well-to-De Farmer, Living Near Toledo.

Toledo, Sept. 21.—The whitecaps have created another sensation in this country by whipping a man named Huntsman, who lives at Holland station, 10 miles from here, and burying him alive. The story has only leaked out, although the outrage, according to the police, was committed on Sept. 9. Huntsmans, under threats, were afraid to communicate to the authorities the story, but neighbors learned of the facts and informed the police.

The facts, as reported to the police, are that two of the Huntsman children coming from the post office were picked coming from the post office were picked up on the road by two men in a buggy and accussed of stealing a pocketbook containing $80. The next night, a party of men came to the Huntsman house and after calling Huntsman out of bed seized and dragged him outside and beat and abused him in a frightful manner. Then they carried him to a grave and putting him in it, covered him with earth. After a while they dug him up again. Then they beat and abused him a second time and finally buried him again.

A Miners' Strike Expected

COLUMBUS, Sept. 21.—The cutting of the wage scale rate for coal mining in Pennsylvania will probably result in a strike of the Ohie coal miners. At the request of the mine operators the joint scale committee of operators and miners will be called together this week, and the operators will demand a reduction of the scale to 45 cents per ton for mining in this state. The miners will hardly agree to this.

BRYAN IN DELAWARE.

He Made a Speech at Dover This After DOVER, Del., Sept. 21.-William J. Bryan spoke here at 1 o'clock this afternoon, having left Washington early this morning.

In an ordinary day coach of the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac railway, William Jennings Bryan continued his trip through Virginia Saturday. He left Richmond at 7 o'clock enroute for Washington. A speech of 30 minutes was made at Fredericksburg, and short addresses were given by the nominee at some of the smaller towns along the line. At Fredericksburg Mr. Bryan wa driven to the Exchange Hotel where he tried to rest, but in reality held an informal reception until 11 o'clock. Then he was taken to the Washington monn. ment, where he made an address to a large crowd. He was then driven to the residence of Mayor W. S. White, where he dined. At 1:50 o'clock he took the train for Washington. His first address was at Ashland where the train stopped two minutes. At the Washington monument he made a beautiful Celebrated AIR CUSHIOL speech, showing great reverence for Later Mr. Bryan was given a reception at the old Capital Baseball park where he made a speech. He also talked at his hotel.

At night Mr. Bryan spoke in Baltimore to two of the largest crowds ever present at a political meeting in this city. The first speech was made in the open air and conservative estimates place the number who heard it at 30,000. The second was held in Music hall, the largest auditorium in Baltimore, and the house was packed until women fainted. house was packed until women fainted and many had to be removed before the speaking could proceed. This arose from the fact that the local committee had issued tickets to the number of al most 15.000, when the capacity of the house is scant 3,500.

At the conclusion of his speech at Music hall Mr. Bryan returned to Washington on the 11 o'clock train over the Baltimore and Ohio railway. although he had previously announce his intention of remaining here unti Monday and rooms had been engages for him at the Carrollton.

Connecticut's Nicknames

Connecticut enjoys the proud distinct tion of having three sobriquets. It has been called the "Land of Steady Hab its," from the sobriety and gravity of its people; the "Freestone State," from the enormous quarries of that description of stone, and the "Nutmeg State, from the tradition prevalent in surrounding communities over 100 years ago that the chief industry of its inhabitants was the manufacture of nutmegs of wood, to be passed off as genuine on unsuspecting purchasers.

The letter says:

pledged to the world and the world knows that the nation will maintain its honor.

I took part in the state convention which sent delegates to represent the party in national convention at Chicago. Those delegates by participation acquiesced in the action of the national convention by presenting candidates for the offices of president and vice-president of the United States. The state convention of the Democratic party has ratified the nomination of these candidates.

I have learned from the fathers and in turn have endeavored to teach that the Democratic party is a vehicle to carry the will of the people into effect. Such a vehicle is constructed with difficulty, but is easily destroyed. Failure now and then to perform absolutely satisfactory service will not justify the utter destruction of the vehicle. It was constructed not to bear one burden, but many and various burdens. When the financial burden is finally disposed of the people will still employ the Democratic party to support their purposes and to carry them into effect. When they do thus employ that party I for one do not want it to be shattered and dismembered, but to be strong, united and efficient.

Therefore I shall cast my vote for Will-efficient.

Therefore I shall cast my vote for William Jennings Bryan and Arthur Sewall the candidates in due and regular form chosen by a majority of that convention. I regret that I cannot be in full accord on the question of finance, with the sentiment of the late convention, but if my position seems inharmonious with the usual attitude of a candidate towards his party it should be remembered that the conditions are also unusual.

In nominating me I must assume that the convention was not unaware of my financial views as expressed in my public utterances, and that it was induced to accord me that distinguished honor in view of the fact that under the constitution a governor of this state has no official connection whatever with matters pertaining to the national currency.

It was apparent at Chicago and Buffalo and is expressed at every gathering of citizens where public questions are discussed, that the people are dissatisfied with the present condition of public affairs, and I am in sympathy with every movement not revolutionary in character which seeks to take burdens off the shoulders of the masses and to restore prosperity and peace to all the people: Therefore I shall cast my vote for Willders of the masses and to restore pros perity and peace to all the people: Mr. Thacher then makes an attack on the record of the last Republican

The Turks Can Keep on Butchering the

LONDON, Sept. 21 .- The events of the latter part of the week have demonstrated beyond any possibility of doubt that unless Great Britain is prepared to face a general European war nothing is left for her to do but, as stated in the semi-official communication from the foreign office, "stand aside and to hope for a more satisfactory state of affairs."

The backdown upon the part of Great Britain is due to the fact that the cabinets of the continental powers have concluded that it is more prudent to condone the recent massacres at Constantinople than to raise the eastern question in the most forcible manner, and as the Marquis of Salisbury recog-nizes it is strength and not sentiment which rules the world, Great Britain cannot face the combined fleets of Russia, France, Germany and Austria, even with the assistance of Italy. Therefore Great Britain must stand aside, and unless Russia prevents it the Turk will have a free hand in the settlement of the Armenian difficulty by the sword and torch or by any other means which the porte may think fit to THACHER'S PECULIAR STAND. Will Fight for Election on State Issues Alone.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 21.-By making an official statement of his position upon the financial question and by declaring in that statement that he is unalterably for gold, John Boyd Thacher, Democratic nominee for governor, creates one of the most curious situations ever known in politics in this state.

The statement was issued after a long conference with Senator Hill, Elliot G. Danforth, who was at Senator Hill's house, and D. Caddy Herrick, the Democratic leader in this county. It was addressed to the chairman of the state committee.

It is believed that this course is approved by Senator Hill. William F. Sheehan and others not in attendance at the state convention, and is intended to try and fend off any nomination of a second Democratic ticket at Brooklyn, and enforce a fight at the polls upon state issues leaving the national ticket entirely out of the question.

Mr. Thacher declares that he against free silver, but will vote for Bryan and Sewall for regularity and fight the campaign on state issues only.

I am informed that the Democratic party of the state in convention assembled at Buffalo on Sept. 17, 1896, did me the honor of naming me as its candidate for the high office of governor. I now learn that the state committee is to meet on Tuesday for the purpose of appointing a committee to officially notify me of that fact. it has seemed to me due to your committee that before it takes that step, I should make a statement.

I cannot ask for the confidence and support of the people of the state without frankly declaring my position upon the financial issue now agitating the public. I stand today where I stood in the month of June in the presence of a convention of the state Democracy. I have not changed an lota in my belief nor deviated a step in my course. The commercial honor of this country is pledged to the world and the world knows that the nation will maintain its honor.

I took part in the state convention which sent delegates to represent the party in national convention at Chicago. Those delegates by participation acquiesced in the action of the national convention by presenting candidates for the offices of president and vice-president of the United States. The state convention of the Democratic party has ratified the nomination of these candidates.

I have learned from the fathers and in turn have endeavored to teach that the Democratic party is a vehicle to carry the will of the people into effect. Such a vehicle is constructed with difficulty, but is easily destroyed. Failure now and then to perform absolutely satisfactory service will not justify the utter destruction of the vehicle. It was constructed not to bear one burden, but many and various burdens. When the financial burden is finally disposed of the people will still employ the Democratic party to support their purposes and to carry them into effect. When they do thus employ that party I for one do not want it to be shattered and dismembered, but to be strong, united and efficient.

Therefore I shall cast my vote for Willmembered, but to be strong, united and efficient.

Therefore I shall cast my vote for William Jennings Bryan and Arthur Sewall, the candidates in due and regular form chosen by a majority of that convention. I regret that I cannot be in full accord on the question of finance, with the sentiment of the late convention, but if my position seems inharmonious with the usual attitude of a candidate towards his party it should be remembered that the conditions are also unusual.

In nominating me I must assume that the convention was not unaware of my financial views as expressed in my public utterances, and that it was induced to accord me that distinguished honor in view of the fact that under the constitution a governor of this state has no official connection whatever with matters pertaining to the national expression.

governor of this state has no official connection whatever with matters pertaining to the national currency.

It was apparent at Chicago and Buffalo and is expressed at every gathering of citizens where public questions are discussed, that the people are dissatisfied with the present condition of public affairs, and I am in sympathy with every movement not revolutionary in character which seeks to take burdens off the shoulders of the masses and to restore prosperity and peace to all the people:

The First Assistant Postmaster General Makes His Report.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.-R. A. Max well, first assistant postmaster general, has made his annual report to the postmaster general for the year ending June 30, 1896. The principal divisions of the department under his care are appointments and inspectors. The report shows that the total number of postoffices in operation in the United States is 70,360. Of these 66,725 are fourth-class offices and 3,635 presidential, being an increase over the last fiscal year of 296. During the year 2,046 postoffices were established and 1,750 discontinued. The total number of ap- penniless and despondent. pointments for the year was 12.090, and the total number of cases acted upon

Mr. Maxwell commends the work of the postoffice inspectors. - The report shows that the total number of complaints of all classes received during the past year aggregated 103,037, and the number of cases disposed of amounted to 100,205. Only 24 complaints were received of carelessness in the handling of registered matter by postal employes. The employes in the postal service handled during the last fiscal year 13. 851,000 pieces of registered mail with the loss of only one piece in every 16,-

Mr. Maxwell points out that there has been a decrease in the number of postoffices and mail burglaries and robberies owing to the killing and arrest of many desperadoes engaged in the business. During the year there were 2,074 ar-rests, of which number 158 were post-

The Turks Can Keep on Butchering the LONDON, Sept. 21 .- The events of th latter part of the week have demonstrated beyond any possibility of doubt that unless Great Britain is prepared to face a general European war nothing is left for her to do but, as stated in the semiofficial communication from the foreign office, "stand aside and to hope for more satisfactory state of affairs.

The backdown upon the part of Great Britain is due to the fact that the cabinets of the continental powers have concluded that it is more prudent to condone the recent massacres at Constantinople than to raise the eastern question in the most forcible manner, and as the Marquis of Salisbury recognizes it is strength and not sentiment which rules the world, Great Britain cannot face the combined fleets of Russia, France, Germany and Austria, even with the assistance of Italy. Therefore Great Britain must stand aside, and unless Russia prevents it the Turk will have a free hand in the set-tlement of the Armenian difficulty by the sword and torch or by any other means which the porte may think fit to adopt.

In view of this state of affairs the Conserv-Marquis of Salisbury and the Conservative press have changed front and are now busily engaged in cold douching the public crusade which they them-selves started in the vain hope of awak-ening similar agitation on the conti-

The facts, as reported to the police, are that two of the Huntsman children coming from the post office were picked up on the road by two men in a buggy and accussed of stealing a pocketbook containing $80. The next night, a party of men came to the Huntsman house and after calling Huntsman out of bed seized and dragged him outside and seized and dragged him outside and beat and abused him in a frightful manner. Later Mr. Bryan was given a reception at the old Capital Baseball park where he made a speech. He also talked at his hotel.

At night Mr. Bryan spoke in Balt more to two of the largest crowds every present at a political meeting in thicity. The first speech was made in the open air and conservative estimate place the number who heard it at 30,000. The second was held in Music hall, the largest auditorium in Baltimore, and the house was packed until women fainted and many had to be removed before the speaking could proceed. This aros from the fact that the local committee had issued tickets to the number of al most 15,000, when the capacity of the house is scant 3,500.

At the conclusion of his speech at Music hall Mr. Bryan returned to Washington on the 11 o'clock train over the Baltimore and Ohio railway although he had previously announce his intention of remaining here unt Monday and rooms had been engage for him at the Carrollton.

ANTHRACITE COAL SUPPLY

According to Recent Estimates, It Will

The Bond Record has been making a careful investigation of the anthracite coal industry. No expense has been spared to obtain correct information, so that those interested in the coal carrying railroads and other companies owning or leasing coal lands may be able to judge of the present prospective values of their properties. Eleven cor-porations control 96 per cent of the available coal supply.

According to the summarized estimate of The Boud Record, in 109 years, on the basis of shipments made in 1895, the supply of anthracite coal will be exhausted. The largest proportion of the annual increase of tonnage has been furnished by the Wyoming region. In 1894 Lehigh and Schuylkill furnished 45 per cent and Wyoming 50 per cent of the year's output, but the Wyoming region is nearing the point of maximum output and increase of tonnage is likely soon to diminish. Unless the gross mismanagement and criminal wastefulness that have characterized the anthracite industry for the past few years are stopped they will result in the ruin of the great properties engaged in the mining and transportation of coal.

Could the various interests involved co-operate and limit the production of the mines to meet the requirements of the market, at fair prices, before many years, with the increasing consumption, the demand would equal production, there would be an end to the present demoralized markets and those who have invested their savings in the stocks and bonds of these anthracite properties would eventually get back their investment with interest.

But the great fact which this publica tion of The Bond Record discloses is the brief period of time which we can depend upon the anthracite coalfields of Pennsylvania to supply us with heat and power. Its place will have to be supplied by some other element, and there is none in sight so admirably adapted for the purpose. ETIQUETTE IN SPAIN. There the People Are Punctiliously Polite at All Times.

Spaniards have some rules of etiquette that would prove surprising to the average easy going American. Take, for instance, the rules governing visits. When the first call is made by a lady. she is expected to arrive in a carriage, that being considered a mark of high respect. Should the person called upon be absent from home, the visitor is expected to leave her card with one end turned over, and in one corner is to be written the initials E. P., meaning en persona or in person. Upon ringing the bell the visitor is usually greeted by an unseen person with the words, "Quien es?" or "Who's there?" to which should be replied "Gente de paz," or persons of peace. Entering, the visitor is conducted to the best room in the house, led up to a sofa and placed to the right of the hostess. On rising to take leave the proper form is to exclaim, in the case of a lady, "Senora, I place myself at your feet." She will answer in a similarly figurative way by saying: "I kiss your hand. May you depart with God and continue well!" Feminine visitors are saluted with a kiss, both upon their arrival and departure. It is considered an unpardonable breach of good manners for a gentleman to offer to shake hands with a Spanish lady. Another decidedly objectionable proceeding, in Spanish eyes, is to offer a lady one's arm when walking with her. Should a Spanish gentleman so far forget himself as to offer his arm to his wife, he would be looked upon as lamentably ignorant of the laws of etiquette governing good society in the land of his birth.

Another noticeable custom is that when walking with a Spaniard in Spain it is considered the height of ill Pittsburgh ... V 16 05 11 30 14 35 11 50 8 27 17 manners to walk on the inside. This is the place of honor and should always be given to the native. When a well Industry

A Story of Two Big Diamonds

Marie Magnier of the Gymnase has the two largest diamonds now in Paris. One day she received from her jeweler a telegram asking her to come at once to his shop. There she found a tall wom-an, thickly veiled, who held in her hands a case with two superb diamonds "Mademoiselle," she said, "M. F. tells me that your fancy is to posses a pair of exceptionally beautiful earrings. Those are all that you can desire. Could you pay down for them before 5 tonight the 100,000 francs which I ask for them?" Mme. Magnier was startled. "Hum, my good woman," she said, in a brusque manner, "you are very cool over the matter; you ask for 100,000 francs just as you would ask for a bushel of onions." The jeweler put his fingers on his lips and nodded deprecatingly. "Oh, very well," said Magnier, "if she is a queen." "She is a queen," answered the lady proudly, shutting the case with a snap. But Magnier had been touched by the blaze of light which had just disappeared from before her eyes, so she said meekly: "All right. I will drive to my banker, and in an hour I shall be back with the money, nadame." And within the hour sh ssessed the most marvelous jewels which ever adorned a first night in Paris. But she never discovered the identity of the veiled woman.—Paris

ANTHRACITE COAL SUPPLY

According to Recent Estimates, It Will Run Out In a Hundred Years.

The Bond Record has been making a careful investigation of the anthracite coal industry. No expense has been spared to obtain correct information, so that those interested in the coal carrying railroads and other companies owning or leasing coal lands may be able to judge of the present prospective values of their properties. Eleven corporations control 96 per cent of the available coal supply.

According to the summarized estimate of The Bould Record, in 109 years, on the basis of shipments made in 1895, the supply of anthracite coal will be exhausted. The largest proportion of the annual increase of tonnage has been furnished by the Wyoming region. In 1894 Lehigh and Schuylkill furnished 45 per cent and Wyoming 50 per cent of the year's output, but the Wyoming region is nearing the point of maximum output and increase of tonnage is likely soon to diminish. The present annual capacity of the anthracite region is about 67,000,000 tons, or about 21,000,000 tons in excess of annual consumption. It is therefore clear that production should be reduced, as the oversupply prostrates the market and at the same time encourages waste in the world. Unless the gross mismanagement and criminal wastefulness that have characterized the anthracite industry for the past few years are stopped they will result in the ruin of the great properties engaged in the mining and transportation of coal.

Could the various interests involved co-operate and limit the production of the mines to meet the requirements of the market, at fair prices, before many years, with the increasing consumption the demand would equal production there would be an end to the present demoralized markets and those who have invested their savings in the stocks and bonds of these anthracite properties would eventually get back their investment with interest

But the great fact which this publication of The Bond Record discloses is the brief period of time which we can de pend upon the anthracite coalfields of Pennsylvania to supply us with heat and power. Its place will have to be supplied by some other element, and there is none in sight so admirably adapted for the purpose. ETIQUETTE IN SPAIN. There the People Are Punctiliously Polite

-Boston Transcript

Spaniards have some rules of etiquette that would prove surprising to the average easy going American. Take, for instance, the rules governing visits. When the first call is made by a lady, she is expected to arrive in a carriage, that being considered a mark of high respect. Should the person called upon be absent from home, the visitor is expected to leave her card with one end turned over, and in one corner is to be written the initials E. P., meaning en persona, or in person. Upon ringing the bell the visitor is usually greeted by an unseen person with the words, "Quien es?" or 'Who's there?" to which should be replied "Gente de paz," or persons of peace. Entering, the visitor is conducted to the best room in the house, led up to a sofa and placed to the right of the hostess. On rising to take leave the proper form is to exclaim, in the case of a lady, "Senora, I place myself at your feet." She will answer in a similarly figurative way by saying: "I kiss your hand. May you depart with God and continue well!" Feminine visitors are saluted with a kiss, both upon their arrival and departure. It is considered an unpardonable breach of good manners for a gentleman to offer to shake hands with a Spanish lady. Another decidedly objectionable proceeding, in Spanish eyes, is to offer a lady one's arm when walking with her. Should a Spanish gentleman so far forget himself as to offer his arm to his wife, he would be looked upon as lamentably ignorant
